Infrastructure of the future

In 2035, what kind of infrastructure will be needed to support the growth of remote work, telemedicine, and online learning? All become mainstream by then, in both the public and private sectors. It is estimated that digital infrastructure will need to be upgraded every 10 years to keep up with demand. This will require significant investment in fiber optics, data centers, and cloud computing. The European Union has already committed to investing in digital infrastructure, and other countries are likely to follow suit. The question is, will the EU ensure that its infrastructure will be sufficient to meet the needs of its citizens in 2035?
